JESSICA GON, 22, COMMUNICATIONS STUDENT & MODEL, SIGNED TO BASIC MODELS
 What are your post-graduation plans? "Up till now, I've modelled only part-time because of my studies, so after graduation (from the National University of Singapore), I'd love to take a gap year to pursue it full-time to see how far I can go. And if modelling doesn't work out, I've done internships at advertising firms so I might go back to that industry." What do you like – and not like – most about modelling? "I love how no two shoots are the same and that I meet different people each time I go for one. It's nice that the job is very unpredictable. What I don't like is how it's perceived. Many people seem to think that it's very glamorous or that models do it to gain clout. I do it because I genuinely enjoy the craft that goes into being in front of the camera or walking a runway, in the same way that an actor likes performing on stage." Instagram or TikTok? "I actually try to avoid using too much social media but, as a model, I'm encouraged to be more active on Instagram to give potential clients a sense of my personality. I thus use my public account (@jessicagonaway) primarily to share my modelling stuff and a private Finsta for sharing things more freely with my closest friends. I don't feel like the whole world needs to know that I'm going, say, for dinner and would rather keep such personal moments private."

On Jessica (this page): Leather jacket, cotton tank top, wool skirt, short and leather pumps, Prada. On Sara (opposite): Fantasy tweed jacket and wool tights, Chanel

STYLE

JESSICA GOH, 22
Model

How would you describe your sense of style?
It's a bit more androgynous right now. I like wearing a lot of men's clothes. When I was in my teens, my go-to was a cropped top and jeans but then I realised I was taking a lot of clothes from my brother's closet and that I feel more comfortable in oversized shirts and layers. A lot of my clothes are thrifted—I think it's more exciting to find unique pieces instead of something everyone else is wearing.

What has shaped your approach to fashion?
Honestly, getting into the modeling industry has been a really big influence. It opened up my eyes to a lot more things that I wouldn't have seen if I weren't in the industry. You're constantly inspired when you go on set. Like, "oh I didn't know something could be styled this way"—there are so many ideas you can just take with you. I also like to look at the street styles of models off duty during fashion week. I really like Sara Choi and Steinberg because they have this edge to them.
